

IDEaS executive to chair HSMAI Region Europe's Revenue Management Advisory Board

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands – HSMAI Region Europe and IDEaS are proud to announce that Paul van Meerendonk, IDEaS' Director of Advisory Services, is now the new chairman of the Revenue Management Advisory Board at one of the most important associations within the hospitality industry, HSMAI Region Europe. The announcement was made at the HSMAI Revenue Optimization Conference in Amsterdam on Wednesday 29 March. A second generation industry veteran – his father worked in hotels sales and general management – Paul brings nearly 20 years of revenue management experience to the position.

The appointment comes in the wake of news that citizenM Hotels Commercial Director Lennert De Jong steps down as the Advisory Board's chair. Mr. De Jong will, however, remain a valued member of the board.

"I have hospitality in my veins and an inherent passion for revenue management and the industry that I want to share with as many people as possible," Paul van Meerendonk says. "As a one of the founding members of the Advisory Board, I want to continue the great work HSMAI has done in growing and developing the revenue management culture of the hospitality industry in Europe."

"We are deeply grateful for Lennert's contributions thus far, confident that his commitment remains unwavering, as he now steps down as an ordinary member of the advisory board," says HSMAI Region Europe's President and CEO Ingunn Hofseth, happy to determine that the board stays in good hands under its new chair, Paul van Meerendonk, adding "Paul has been a tremendous support during his service as the vice chair, so we're really looking forward to working with him in this field of operation.”

“I would like to thank Lennert for a job very well done, happy to establish that he will continue his work, although not as chair of the board, always bringing positive energy to every meeting and call, coupled with a deep passion for the industry,” Ms. Hofseth declares in a statement.

“Paul van Meerendonk has done a great job for us these past three years. He is highly motivated and has many good ideas. We primarily work with people from the industry as volunteer chairs. Paul is very structured and well organised, as well as very good at separating IDEaS from the job he has done for us,” she adds.

“As vice chair and one of the founding members of the HSMAI Region Europe RM Advisory Board, I have been part of the driving force behind creating the momentum and growth of the board. Working closely together with the previous chairs, Christian Boerger and Lennert de Jong, as well as the HSMAI leadership team, we recruited members from Europe who shared our interest in hotels, Revenue Management and the growth of the industry as a whole. I’m looking forward to continuing this work in my new capacity,” says Paul van Meerendonk, Director Global Advisory Services at IDEaS, a SAS Company.

He leads a global team of revenue management and pricing experts who are focused on hospitality revenue optimisation projects. During his time with IDEaS, Paul has successfully led several high-profile advisory projects, including estate revenue management audits and roadmap development, function space revenue management, price optimisation, revenue management service desk development, education and training development, and standard operating procedure development.

Paul holds a Bachelor’s Degree in Commercial Economics from the Amsterdam School of Business, and is a certified Six Sigma Greenbelt. He is an active participant in a number of revenue management related associations, including currently holding the Vice-Chairman position with the HSMAI Region Europe RM Advisory Board. He is a frequent guest speaker at numerous industry events and conventions, and regularly conducts global webinars on Revenue Management and Pricing topics.

Prior to joining IDeaS, Paul was Asset Manager with Jones Lang LaSalle Hotels, working on various assignments in the UK and Europe, on behalf of investors, banks and financial intuitions. Paul's work was aimed at ensuring property performance and return on investment through interaction with and auditing of hotel management.

Paul van Meerendonk started his hotel career with Starwood Hotels and Resorts, where he was active in Sales & Marketing and Revenue Management roles at a hotel, regional and corporate level in Brussels, Munich and Bangkok. He was a key member of the team that rolled out and developed Revenue Management within Europe and the Middle East, for Starwood Hotels, and co-designed an industry first on-line revenue management planning and reporting tool.
